Russians Destroy the Dalny Piers and Docks

JAPANESE ADVANCE CONTINUES

Jap Torpedo Boat No 48 Ran on a Mine and Sank--Investing Army of 40,000 Ready in a Few Days

Did Not Destroy the Fleet

Chefoo, May 12.—1.30 a.m.—The officers of the steamers arriving from New Chwang discredit the story of the destruction by the Russians of the fleet at Port Arthur. When the officers passed Port Arthur last night (Wednesday) they saw searchlights flying from the ships and forts. There was no sign of the Japanese fleet in the vicinity. The officers further stated that there was not more than 1,000 Russian soldiers left at New Chwang or in the vicinity.

The Czar Wants to Abdicate

London, May 12.—The Liverpool Post today asserts that a report has reached here from a high quarter in St. Petersburg that the Czar is suffering from great mental depression and is desirous of abdicating. Ever since the opening of the war with Japan the Czar has suffered from melancholia and this has increased with each fresh disaster to Russia.

The Edict Revoked by War

St. Petersburg, May 12.—4.16 p.m.—Viceroy Alexieff has telegraphed to the Czar announcing that the Russians have blown up the docks and piers at Port Dalny on the Liao Tung peninsula, presumably to render more difficult the Japanese landing at that point.

Port Dalny on Talienwan Bay, on the east coast, on the Liao Tung peninsula, was intended by the Russians to be the chief commercial emporium of their eastern dominions. An edict providing for its construction was issued by the Russian emperor on July 30, 1899, and Port Dalny, fully equipped with all modern improvements, docks, warehouses and railroad facilities, was opened to commerce in December, 1902.

The Japanese Advance

Chefoo, May 14th.—Skirmishing has been reported southeast of Sulchang from which point the Japanese are advancing in Yorea. It is believed the three Japanese divisions marching on that point will reach their objective to-morrow or Sunday. Reports reach here that the Russians are withdrawing from Liao Cheng, fearing they will be cut off and the resistance will probably be nominal.

No attack is expected on Liao Yang until the railroad is enclosed by the western column. Japan's control of the Liao Tung peninsula outside of Port Arthur is complete and reinforcements are being rushed to the army which is investing the Russian forts. General Oku will himself command and the investing force, placed now at 15,000 men, will within three or four days, be increased to 40,000.

First Army Erecting Fortifications

Liao Yang, May 14th.—The advance guard has appeared six miles below Lien Chen Kuan, on the road to Liao Yang. It is now making another advance but erecting strong fortifications.

Russia Concentrating Troops in Asia Minor

London, May 14th.—The Daily Mail publishes a despatch from Constantinople according to which Russia is concentrating troops just beyond the Caucasus. The most reliable information fixes the present total number of troops at 125,000.

WAR NOTES

The Japanese torpedo boat No. 48 ran on a Russian mine at Kori Bay north of Dalny, and was lost with seven men. Rumors of the Czar's abdication are again current. The Japanese are still advancing northward. Cassiopea are reported raiding on the Upper Yalu. A Russian correspondent gives a description of a journey north from Port Arthur.

ARBOR DAY

The weather provided Edmonton for Arbor Day was all that could be desired. The sky was cloudless and the sun warm, while a tempering breeze made outdoor life an attraction sufficiently strong to entice the citizens from their usual haunts.

The day was observed as a general holiday, stores and offices were closed and the majority spent the day in various kinds of recreation. The number to be seen driving, riding and wheeling, was unusually large, even for Edmonton. The polo club had a match in the afternoon, a very large number drove over to Strathcona to attend the games there, while the golfers were out in force at the links all the afternoon.

STRATHCONA WON

THE FIRST BASE BALL MATCH

A Large Crowd at the Strathcona Fair Grounds Sees Edmonton Defeated. The Football Game a Tie

The Edmonton people—and they were many—who went to Strathcona yesterday to attend the baseball and football games met with two disappointments. They saw the local baseball men badly beaten and the football team unable to defeat their opponents.

The baseball game was billed to begin at two o'clock but it was long past that hour when Umpire Jackson called the game. Strathcona went to bat first and from the opening innings the Edmonton visitors began to prepare for the worst. The home team ran up the score several points while the visiting team got only two men across the plate. The succeeding innings up to the eighth widened the gap between their records continually until the score stood 19 to 4 in favor of Strathcona. In this inning however, Edmonton warmed up and sent five men across the plate in a single inning and the visitors began to revive. It was but the glimmer of a hope however, and faded when the ninth came and the home team marked up several more runs. In the final Edmonton failed to get a man over the plate and the game closed about five o'clock with a score of 29 to 9 against them.

As to the game generally little comment is necessary. That the score of the losing team was more than the combined scores of the teams should have been in the most luminous description of the game possible. It may be said in fairness that both teams played poor ball but that Edmonton played considerably poorer ball than their opponents. Doubtless a large part of the reason was due to lack of practice and it is a safe conjecture that the same men will play a vastly different kind of ball within a month.

The teams lined up as follows:—
STRATHCONA
 Dobson Catcher
 Brown 1st Base
 Sterns 2nd Base
 Greenway 3rd Base
 S. S. Maroney
 Blyn Right Field
 Kinner Centre Field

THE FOOTBALL GAME.

The football teams lined up about 5 p.m. for their first match of the season. The play was rough and was close and sharp, the game ending in a tie, 1-1.

It was noticeable that a large number of strangers lined up on the Edmonton team. These were naturally at a disadvantage in not knowing each other's ability or methods of play, as they had practically had no practice together previous to the match. Among them, however, were many good ones and the team should make a creditable showing with a few weeks' practice. Strathcona had the advantage of fewer strange players and consequently more familiarity and confidence among the players.

NEW BUSINESS BLOCK

Architect H. D. Johnson has completed the plans for the new block to be erected at the corner of Jasper avenue and First street by McDougall & Secord, the contract for which has been let to Messrs. McAllister and Pomeroy.

The new block will have a frontage of 75 feet on Jasper avenue and of 100 feet on First street. The building will be three stories in height with a full sized basement. The walls will be of brick, with stone piers, carved stone capitals, and moulded bases. The second and third floors will be carried on stone pilasters with carved bases. The building will be heated throughout by steam and provided with modern systems of water supply and plumbing.

The corner apartment on the ground floor will be occupied by the Bank of Nova Scotia, the ceilings being finished in cedar and the doors panelled in oak.

The remainder of the ground floor will be occupied by McIntosh and Campbell's furniture store. They also have a large portion of the basement as a storeroom and the rear of the second and third floors as show rooms. The second and third floors will be divided into offices.

The main entrance to the building will be at the corner of the Jasper avenue front, whence a stairway will lead to the upper stories. An elevator will be installed in the rear of the building, leading from the basement to the third floor.

Work will begin on the new block as soon as materials are to hand and the work will be pushed to completion during the present season.

PASTOR FAREWELLED

A social was held on Wednesday evening in the Belmont school house, by the members of the Presbyterian congregation and friends, in honor of the Rev. A. M. Ross, their late pastor. A large gathering assembled, and the evening was pleasantly spent in games. At the close of the games and after all had partaken of a good repast, the Rev. M. White of Lacombe was called to the chair. In a few opening remarks the chairman referred to the fact that Mr. Ross had spent his first eighteen months as missionary work in the West, under his care, and spoke of him as kind-hearted, and a faithful servant of the Lord Jesus Christ.

A brief programme consisting of songs, instrumental music and speeches brought the meeting to the important part of the evening's entertainment viz., a presentation to the Rev. Mr. Ross, who is now pastor of the Presbyterian congregation at Penhold. Miss McWee, teacher, read an address signed by the members and friends, expressing their appreciation of the work of Mr. Ross, and the high esteem in which he was held, and their good wishes for him in his new sphere of labor. At the close of the address, Master Herbie Bull presented Mr. Ross with a well filled purse. Mr. Ross replied in a suitable manner, thanking the people for all their kindness to him as their pastor, and expressing the hope that God's blessing would rest upon them, and their new pastor, the Rev. Mr. Simon. About midnight the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the hymn, "God be with you till we meet again," and the benediction.

COLONISTS WELL SATISFIED

Dr. Wade, Immigration Commissioner, is in receipt of the following letter written by a British colonist going by way of Edmonton.

Edmonton, May 12, 1904.

Being on our way to Lloydminster, we have taken the Edmonton route, and from what we see of it, there appears to be no doubt that this is the better route, and certainly the easier. We have still to go down the river to complete our journey, but this appears to present no difficulties.

Edmonton we like very much, are well pleased with the arrangements made by the town council, and we are camping on the exhibition grounds.

Settlers will find no difficulties in equipping themselves with outfit, etc., at the right prices. Horses, oxen, etc., are considerably cheaper than quoted to us on other routes.

There is plenty of good, cheap hotel accommodation. The new Immigration Hall, and the town council, have placed the exhibition grounds and the buildings for use of settlers coming this way. This makes an ideal camping ground.

Mr. Stuart Wade, on behalf of the town council, has the arrangements in hand for the comfort of settlers, and from our own experience we can say that he is doing this in a most efficient manner. I am,

Yours faithfully,
S. ELSON.

MORE TROOPS NEEDEDFOR THE THIBETAN TROUBLE

Indian Army Headquarters Preparing Reinforcements for Col. Young-husband's Force

(Bulletin Special Dispatch).

London, May 14th.—The Indian Army headquarters are preparing to send large reinforcements to Col. Young-husband's Tibetan column.

The mounted infantry returned on May 6th to the camp on the Karola, and reported that they had killed 250 Tibetans during the pursuit after the force that opposed the advance of Col. Young-husband's mission, says a despatch to the Times from Gang Tse, Thibet.

There is some suspicion of collusion between the Tibetans and the Chinese. Two English rifles were recaptured, one of which had been lost by Lieut. Grant at Phel some months ago. The Tibetans have strongly fortified Jong and open fire upon every force approaching the town. Some hundreds have taken residence in the monastery, whence they have opened fire upon the British troops. Persons of importance arrive daily at Jong, and Lhasa sends conscripts from monasteries in a wide radius.

In the attack on the mission commenced on May 5, when eight servants were killed, the Tibetans actually gained the walls. Only their shouting betrayed them in time to prevent the indiscriminate slaughter of a post weakened by the detachment of men for an expedition. The defenders were quickly in position, and drove off the invaders. The sick men in the hospital insisted on joining the fighters, and gave valuable assistance.

The correspondent adds that Col. Bradder's victory at Karola probably will have great effect, but it is clear that the Tibetans contemplate a combined effort to exterminate the mission.

The House Spent Yesterday Discussing the Question, but No Definite Action Was Taken

(Bulletin Special Dispatch).

Ottawa, Ont., May 13th.—Most of today was taken up by a discussion of the employment of United States citizens as engineers on the Grand Trunk Pacific. Mr. Clark, M.P., stated the Minister of Labor was alleged to be in action but did not say what action he would take.

The Minister replied vigorously. Both sides agreed that a grievance existed which should be remedied. Smith, laborer, Liberal, of Vancouver, proposed general legislation to cover the point and Pattee, laborer, and anti-Grand Trunk member for Winnipeg, wanted the Grand Trunk bargain held up until the alien engineers were discharged. No conclusion was reached when the House rose at 12.10.

THE GREAT WHEAT BELT

Proof by Results.

In case there may be doubts of the climatic or other advantages of that part of the Red River Valley on the Canada side, because of its more northerly situation it need only be said that the development in the province of Manitoba and the adjoining portions of the Northwest Territories is fully equal to that which has taken place in the United States. The city of Winnipeg, the lake ports of Port William and Port Arthur, the two lines of railway to those ports, the network of railways throughout the province, and the huge yield of wheat for the past several years, unequalled per head of population elsewhere in the world, all tell their story of created wealth which can only rest on a foundation of most favorable conditions. Indeed so favorable are the conditions and so satisfactory have been the results, that the lands of the Red River Valley on the Canada side are either actually occupied or held at such prices as to suggest to the pioneer the desirability of going further west into the Saskatchewan Valley to get as good soil, more favorable natural conditions, and cheaper land, while still within the "Great Wheat Belt" of Canada, and of North America.

While there is a marvellous similarity of soil throughout the great wheat belt, extending from the head of the Red River in Minnesota to the head of the Saskatchewan in the Rocky Mountains, there are, as already said, very considerable differences in climatic and other conditions. The great and striking climatic difference between the extreme south eastern part of the wheat belt in the Red River Valley and the extreme northwestern part comprised in the western portion of the Saskatchewan valley, is the chinook wind. The chinook is the local name given to the west wind which blowing off the warm waters of the North Pacific carries a share of their warmth far inland, even over the mountain ranges of British Columbia. The chinook differs from the west wind that blows off the North Atlantic carrying warmth and moisture over Northern Europe, in that it has lost its moisture in passing over the mountain ranges intervening between the coast and the plains. The chinook is dry as well as warm, and the warmer because it is dry. It carries its warmth much farther out on the plains than would be possible if it held moisture. The force of the chinook varies in various parts of the west, but its character of a mild, dry west wind is always the same. In Southern Alberta where the land is very high, sloping easterly and northerly from the still higher plains of Montana and Wyoming and where the intervening mountains are comparatively low, the west wind blows strongly in winter and in summer. It clears the snow off in winter making an excellent range for cattle the year round, but its drying effect in summer tends against success in grain growing. Further north when the drainage basin of the North Saskatchewan is reached, the elevation of the country is less and the intervening mountains are higher. Consequently the chinook is not so strongly felt as in the south. The winter climate is modified, not reversed as in the range country, and the summer rainfall is sufficient for all the purposes of agriculture. There is a park like growth of timber which shelters from the wind, so that the blizzards which blow so fiercely over the great bare eastern plains are here unknown. The snow comes late in the fall. There is generally good sleighing from about Christmas until the latter part of March. The snow is seldom drifted and all winter long. There are cold snaps of course, but they are generally of short duration, and mild weather predominates, but winter thaws are practically unknown.

Warmth in High Latitudes.

It is a well established fact that the western part of the Saskatchewan valley has an ideal winter, owing to the influence of the chinook. But that influence extends much further north, and is felt even more strongly on the Peace River than on the Saskatchewan, so that the winter climate of that region from latitude 55 to 59 presents a very little variation from that on the agricultural sections of the Atlantic coast of North America, but are no higher than those at which agriculture is practicable and profitable in Northwest Europe, which is similarly affected by the warm wind blowing off the Gulf stream. Edmonton, on the Saskatchewan, is in the same latitude as Liverpool, England; and St. Petersburg, the capital of Russia, is in latitude 60, much farther north than any part even of the Peace River country.

The Far Northerly Range of Wheat

As the region affected by the chinook lies along the base of the Rockies and the slope of the country is easterly it is necessarily at a comparatively high elevation above the sea and this coupled with its northern latitude is apt to create the impression that the combination of high latitude and altitude makes the climate unsuitable for wheat. To prove that these influences are balanced by the effect of the chinook, it is only to be shown that wheat is grown successfully all the way from the international boundary in latitude 49 to Port Vermilion, on Peace River, in latitude 51-2, a distance of 700 miles from south to north. The incontestable proof of successful growth of wheat to the existence and operation of flour mills, at various points throughout this great distance. There is a mill at Cardston and another at Raymond, a very few miles north of the international boundary, one at Wetaskiwin, one at Leduc, one at Strathcona, one at Edmonton, one at Fort Saskatchewan, and one at Morinville. These last six are all in the drainage basin of the Saskatchewan; and all but one—Wetaskiwin—within a radius of twenty miles of Edmonton, in latitude 51-2. Two of them, Port Saskatchewan and Morinville, are twenty miles from the existing railway. All the mills mentioned are roller process and of this season are running night and day. Their product holds its local market against the competition of the great mills of Manitoba and competes with them in the common market of British Columbia. At Peace River Crossing in latitude 56 there is a steam mill grinding local wheat to supply the home demand, and at Vermilion, further down Peace River in latitude 53-2 is a fifty barrel roller process mill grinding on last season's crop. It may not be out of place to mention that a steam grist mill was first established at Vermilion in 1886, so that the growth of wheat there is not an experiment. Wheat is also grown and ground into flour at Port Providence on the Mackenzie river in latitude 61, 15 miles further north than Vermilion. These facts establish a wide range of climatic possibility under the moderating influence of the chinook, and prove conclusively that the Saskatchewan valley is far within the northern limit of the growth of wheat, and indeed in its western part is only midway between the possibilities existing at the international boundary and those of the lower Peace River at Port Vermilion.

Limitations of the Wheat Belt.

But while the marked feature of the drainage basin of the Red and Saskatchewan rivers is great and wonderful uniformity of fertility of soil, and while all parts are well within the northern limit of successful wheat culture, it would be a mistake to suppose that the conditions are the same, or are equally favorable throughout the whole area. As already indicated the country has an easterly slope from the base of the Rockies to the valleys of the Mississippi and Red Rivers. It has also a northerly slope to the arc of the Peace as shown by the course of the great Mackenzie river. But this northerly slope is intercepted by the valley of the North Saskatchewan which cuts clear across the plains from the Rockies in the west to the Laurentians in the east and bare the northern extension of the high, dry, plain country which occupies such a vast extent of the western part of the United States. The highest part of the great plateau lies in the States of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. Because of their great elevation above the sea the climates of these states is too dry for successful agriculture, and they are devoted almost entirely to grazing. In its western part the international boundary approximately follows the watershed between the Missouri and the South Saskatchewan. The Missouri finds its way south-easterly into the Mississippi and the South Branch northeasterly into the main Saskatchewan. The streams which rise in the Rockies unite to form the South Saskatchewan show a rapid fall of the country northward from the international boundary, so that while at the boundary line west of the 10th meridian the climate is as dry as the Canada side on the west of the 10th meridian the climate is as dry on the Canada side as the Montana side, the country falls so rapidly that at no very great distance, as
